

Training & Trade Show

August 9-11, 2016
Rhode Island Convention Center
Providence, Rhode Island

Expanding on the legacy of GovEnergy, the Energy Exchange is an educational and networking forum for those seeking to increase their knowledge of building operations, energy management, and sustainability in the federal sector.

Organized by the U.S. Department of Energy's Federal Energy Management Program (FEMP), through Oak Ridge National Laboratory (ORNL), the Energy Exchange brings together subject matter experts from different technical disciplines to share cost-effective, actionable solutions. Attendees with a diverse range of skills come to the Energy Exchange to learn from the real-world experiences shared by working practitioners. The Energy Exchange will be of interest to project directors, technical and policy analysts, and others engaged in the federal energy management community.

Registration Rates & Hotel Information

- Government Contractors & Private Industry: $350

Registration Rate after June 10, 2016*

- Government & National Laboratories: $250
- Government Contractors & Private Industry: $425

Onsite registration: Opens Sunday, August 7, 2016*

*DOE and National Laboratory staff: Please note that in order to control costs, this year's event is once again invitation-only for DOE-funded attendees. DOE's Sustainability Performance Office (SPO) has worked with FEMP to establish the approved DOE attendee list. All DOE conference POCs have been provided with the approved list. If you do not receive an invitation to attend from either the SPO or FEMP and attempt to register for this year's event, your training event/conference registration will be canceled. You will be responsible for canceling your own hotel reservation. If you are unsure if you are on the approved DOE attendee list, check with your site's conference management POC.

Informative Technical Sessions

From the opening keynote to the closing plenary session, the Energy Exchange offers continuous opportunities for professional development. The training sessions are structured to explore the diverse energy management challenges and opportunities in and across federal agencies. Attendees will learn new approaches for designing and implementing projects, and hear insights from leading subject matter experts. There will also be opportunities to participate in roundtable discussions and meet new colleagues. Share your ideas and learn how others are implementing practical solutions to increase energy efficiency and identifying new pathways by applying advanced technologies.

The Energy Exchange's 126 training sessions are organized within the following tracks:

- Better Building Energy Management
- Data, Dashboards, and Decisions (Partial track)
- Energy 101
- Energy Intensive Buildings
- Energy Resilience to Achieve Mission Assurance
- Energy Technology
- Federal Fleet Management
- FEMP Services (Partial track)
- Integrated Energy
- Leadership in Sustainability
- People Matter: Institutional Change in Action
- Policy and Leadership
- Project Financing
- Renewable Energy (Partial track)
- Strategic Energy Master Planning: Portfolio, Installation and Campus
- Utilities (Partial track)

The Energy Exchange is helping federal agencies pursue sustainability, in addition to energy-related measures by providing training that is also applicable to the goals outlined in E.O. 13693, "Planning for Federal Sustainability in the Next Decade." The Energy Exchange offers sessions on technologies and concepts that DOE and other federal agencies are using to meet these goals, as well as strategies for implementing and financing E.O. 13693 provisions.

Continuing Education Units

International Association for Continuing Education and Training continuing education units (CEUs) will be available for designated training sessions. CEUs are administered after completing session-specific tests with 80% accuracy.

Technology-Focused Trade Show

The Energy Exchange trade show will highlight an array of cutting-edge products and services to help improve outcomes and reduce costs at agency-funded project sites. Service providers, manufacturers, and distributors of all sizes will be on hand to provide demonstrations and speak with Energy Exchange attendees.

Additional Trainings & Meetings

Pre- and post-trainings and federal agency meetings are held in conjunction with the Energy Exchange. Details about these opportunities will be posted to the Energy Exchange website as they become available.

FEMP Program Director

"With the Executive Order 13693 issued in March 19, 2015, federal agencies have expanded goals for energy efficiency and sustainability. The Energy Exchange provides critical training so that federal employees are well positioned to achieve and go beyond these expanded goals."
